2008 Spring Semester

Course Requirement Summary
Level	Sem. Credits	Course Structure
Beginner Level	12 - 15	1 Spanish Language Course 3-4 English Electives

Beginner Level - Total Possible Credit(s): 12 - 15

1 Spanish Language Course

Course Title: Beginning Spanish I
Recommended Sem Credits: 3 Contact Hours: 45
Level(s) 100
Instruction in: Spanish
Primary Subject Area: Spanish Language & Literature
CEA Partner Institution: CEA GlobalCampus: Barcelona

Description:
 This course is designed for students who wish to achieve a basic level in Spanish. The structure of the course focuses particularly on strategies and structures basic for communicating on daily situations. By carrying out specific tasks you will develop and improve different skills necessary for communication. In class you are devoted to use Spanish in order to solve activities which imply communicative exchanges. These individual or group-based tasks will offer you contexts for exploring and synthesizing vocabulary, grammar structures or language functions necessary for accomplishing the activity.

The course aims to reveal the close link between language and culture. By completing different types of tasks such as field studies or onsite research, you will explore and contrast cultural aspects which define Spanish society.

By the end of the course, you are expected to master vocabulary and grammar structures in order to be able to: understand and use familiar everyday expressions and very basic phrases aimed at the satisfaction of needs of a concrete type; introduce yourself and others; ask and answer questions about personal details such as where you live, people you know and things you have; interact in a simple way provided the other person talks slowly and clearly and is prepared to help.

Course Title: Beginning Spanish II
Recommended Sem Credits: 3 Contact Hours: 45
Level(s) 100
Instruction in: Spanish
Primary Subject Area: Spanish Language & Literature
CEA Partner Institution: CEA GlobalCampus: Barcelona

Description:
 This course is designed for students who have at least the equivalent of one semester of college level Spanish. The primary aim of the course is to develop the four basic skills (reading, writing, listening and speaking) through a communicative, collaborative and cultural approach.

The course combines several integrated approaches aimed at developing your skills. Most in-class time, driven by the structure of the textbook and accompanying activities, is devoted to speaking and practicing Spanish through a combination of group-based and individual activities, focusing on grammatical structures, language functions and vocabulary. Lessons also focus on a wide range of contemporary cultural themes through the use of varied materials such as advertising material and short film clips. Onsite activities such as field studies to markets and universities, and regular interviews and conversations with members of the local community, will give you a unique chance to rapidly implement your linguistic development in real-life.

Special extra-curricular activities, such as music concerts, cooking classes, exploring museums and parks, Spanish movie night, or possible language-exchange opportunities will be announced and your instructor will help you identify which activities would be most useful for you. These, and other cultural components of the course, will also promote your knowledge of Spanish and Spanish people, as you learn about Spanish society, and thus learning Spanish gives you a privileged opportunity to develop sensitivity towards cultural differences and to understand the ways in which culture and language interlock. In this sense you will be encouraged to exploit the value of these lessons not just as a useful aid to your progress in other courses at the GlobalCampus, but as a set of tools for unlocking a wide range of intercultural discoveries whilst living and studying abroad.

By the end of the course, you are expected to have mastered basic grammar and lexical structures, so that you'll be able to conduct a simple conversation and to write short and basic texts with some degree of competency. You will be able to speak about yourself and your family, to introduce people, to interact with the host community and to follow short and simple conversations.

Course Title:	Macroeconomics
Recommended Sem Credits:	3	Contact Hours: 45
Level(s)	300
Instruction in:	English
Primary Subject Area:	Economics
Other Subject Area(s):	Business
CEA Partner Institution:	CEA GlobalCampus: Barcelona

Description:

This course is an introduction to Macroeconomics, the branch of economics that deals with the workings of the economy as a whole. Thus, the purpose of the course is to understand and explain the variations of aggregate (economy-wide) variables, such as GDP, unemployment rates, aggregate demand, aggregate supply, price levels, etc. The contribution of different approaches and schools of thought within macroeconomics will be overviewed including their merits as well as their shortcomings. In order to provide a strong foundation for the study of macroeconomics, we will examine inequality both within and among nations, focusing in particular on uneven development on a global scale.

Readings will include current press reports on output, growth, unemployment, inflation, interest rates, Federal Reserve policy, fiscal policy proposals, the trade deficit, fluctuations in foreign exchange rates, and other issues of macroeconomic policy as a means to illustrate the concepts learned in class.

Class participation is integral to the course. It is also of crucial importance to do the readings before class and to bring questions up for discussion so students develop a solid understanding not only of the terminology, but also of the manner in which these terms are used in practice

Course Title:	Media and Politics in Western Europe: The Case of Spain
Recommended Sem Credits:	3	Contact Hours: 45
Level(s)	300
Instruction in:	English
Primary Subject Area:	Communication
Other Subject Area(s):	Journalism, Political Science
CEA Partner Institution:	CEA GlobalCampus: Barcelona

Description:

The aim of this course is to analyze the role of the mass media in modern Spain by placing it in a wider European context and, when appropriate, by playing it off the US media-politics debates. The course will address wider issues such as the meaning of the term "Western Europe" in a 27-strong pan-national community, the meaning of the words "liberal" and "socialism" in a European context. We will also try to find an answer to more specific questions such as: what makes Europe work and how does Spain fit into the European political framework? Or, how do Europeans project themselves through their national presses? Before examining in greater detail the Spanish case, we will take a look at the media-politics divide in France, Germany and the UK and carry out some case study analysis of the major players across Europe to see if we can identify any specifically European traits regarding the relationship between the media and politics. As for the Spanish media itself, we will adopt a hands-on approach to the press, radio and TV as well as taking constant sidelooks at the US media before examining how Spain is considered by the foreign correspondents based here.

Course Title: Photography in Barcelona

Recommended Sem Credits: 3 Contact Hours: 45

Level(s) 300

Instruction in: English

Primary Subject Area: Photography

CEA Partner Institution: CEA GlobalCampus: Barcelona

Description:

Learn how the camera can be used in a foreign environment as an exciting tool of documentary record, cross-cultural understanding, artistic expression and self-discovery. After an introduction to the fundamentals of photography, both traditional and digital, your camera will be constantly trained on the city of Barcelona itself, its architecture, history, people, and rich culture. As you develop your technical, compositional and critical skills as a photographer you will create a portfolio of images that will both showcase and celebrate your whole unforgettable study abroad experience. Throughout the course you will be able to post your best work on the Campus website to record and display your experiences.

Your in-class workshops will develop your practical and theoretical skills, and your photographic trips throughout the streets, and squares of the city center will be complemented with a guided in-depth visit to different photo shows.

Throughout the course your instructor will frequently deliver critical reviews of your work, but you will also be actively involved in analyzing and evaluating your own work and the work of others in a collaborative atmosphere of constructive reflection and criticism. You'll have the opportunity to post your work on the course web site in order to record and display your experiences.

You may choose to work with traditional or digital photography. Either way, it is absolutely mandatory that you bring a 35 mm SLR (single lens reflex) camera (digital or traditional). Digital cameras must have a minimum of 4 mega pixels. Traditional cameras must be able to be loaded with 35 mm films. Your camera must have a manual mode and at least a 50 mm lens (or a zoom including the 50 mm focal length). It must be functioning and, particularly if old and unused for a long time, has to be reviewed professionally before you leave the U.S. Do not bring any film with you as it is frequently destroyed by airport security scans.

If you are enrolled in any other electives there may be the possibility of executing a photographic project as part of your work requirements for those courses.

Required Supplies: Digital camera (DSLR, full manual functions, minimum of 4 megapixels) or 35 mm SLR camera (SLR, full manual functions) and 50 mm SLR or equivalent lens (also a zoom including the 50 mm). You will be required to spend between $150 and $20 on film and developing during this course.

CEA Partner Institution: CEA GlobalCampus: Barcelona

Description:

The course will provide students with a working knowledge of the structure and major institutions of the European Union as well as with an understanding of the cultural and historical trends which have motivated these independent countries to work together in order to develop an idea of Europe. From the original European Economic Community of six countries to the present European Union of twenty five this organization has passed through different moments that have shaped its present structure and its future. The impact of the Euro, the problems with the approval of a European Constitution, relationships with the USA, the new Eastern European countries joining the EU, and the possible incorporation of Turkey will be topics that will be covered in this course. Finally the present current flows of migrants coming into the EU and its consequences shaping the future UE will be analyzed as well.

Field Trips

- Visit to the Parliament of Catalonia: students will make contact with one of the most important government institutions in Catalonia, where they will learn about the history and evolution of the Catalan Parliament. They will have the chance to experience the feeling of being a Parliamentary member in the heat of debate.
- "Go hunting in Barcelona": students will visit the "Raval", a multiethnic and cosmopolitan part of the city. Students will "hunt" for signs of globalization and classify these signs into political, social and economic categories. A subsequent discussion will take place during which students will reflect on the signs they have collected.
